

The way that we measure has evolved over time but we still use measurements based on outdated baselines. Select a unit of measure from the past that is still currently in use. This could include length, area, volume, or mass. Discuss its origins and compare it with its equivalent metric unit.