

Whilst we are familiar with the use of probability in the gambling world such as in casinos and horse racing, there are many other scenarios such as sport, medicine, weather, and financial markets that use probability to make everyday decisions that affect our lives. Research one example and show how probability is used. Your response should be 400 words.