

Use the internet to research current examples of natural selection. Choose an example that interests you, and create a poster to bring to the next class meeting. Your poster will be a single printed PowerPoint slide and should include the following information:

- your name
- the title of the example (e.g., Darwin's finches)
- an explanation of the evidence for natural selection.