

In your opinion, was it admirable for Angelina Jolie to come forward with her story of proactive double mastectomy? Do you think her celebrity detracted from her message? Are celebrities the only people who can be effective spokespeople for major diseases? Defend your opinions. (Half Page)