

Prior to the next class meeting, read "The Art of War." Before you begin reading, think back to the leadership goals you identified when reading "The Prince." Remember, these are the goals that you think will help you become a better leader in your organization.

Once you have your goals in mind, read "The Art of War." As you're reading, find at least two pieces of advice from Sun Tzu that you can use to help you achieve your leadership goals. If you can't find anything that relates directly to your goals, identify at least two pieces of advice that you think all leaders should follow.

Submit your advice here and bring a hard copy to class. Be prepared to share your leadership goals and advice from "The Art of War" in the next class meeting.
